TOURING DOWNTOWN: Miami's Downtown Development Authority is taking staff on orientation tours twice a month to acquaint them with new developments. The team has visited the Viceroy Miami's resort & residences and condo tower One Broadway in Brickell. Additional tours of other big-name properties are planned. Marketing Manager Robert Geitner said the authority is also organizing tours for visiting writers and journalists during this year's International Pow Wow tourist trade show, which Miami is hosting in May. He said tours include stops along the waterfront and Brickell Avenue's corridor.
