

May 17, 2009

Pedal Pushers

It's the last day for Bike Miami Days. Get out your wheels and go for a spin.

By GINGER HARRIS

Updated 9:00 AM EDT, Sun, May 17, 2009

Cars need not apply in downtown Miami today when the streets shut down to make way for self-propelled transportation only.

Bring your bike, your skateboard, your psuh scooter or any other device you power yourself—including your feet—or Bike Miami Days' last day of the season.

From 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. not only does downtown Miami go green for travel, the area transforms into a street festival for the whole family with live music, green art exhibits, yoga, street performances, a bike clinic, face painting, balloon art and contests with prizes sure to get you from point A to B in a flash.

A dance competition for kids and adults will reward the best booty-shakers with six brand new bikes.

The event is a push from the mayor to promote community and pedestrian-friendly streets and bring people back to the heart of the city.

Related Stories

So, dust off that bicycle built for two, get in gear and go.

Downtown Miami gets bike-friendly today.